DEDICATION

Ever has progress, such as typified in our theme, been activated by the beneficent support of true friends of education. In recognition of his staunch and unselfish loyalty to Colorado College, as evidenced by years of active service as a trustee of the college and by his recent munificent gift for the new Memorial Chapel, we, the class of 1930, dedicate this volume of the Pikes Peak Nugget to

Mr. Eugene P. Shove.

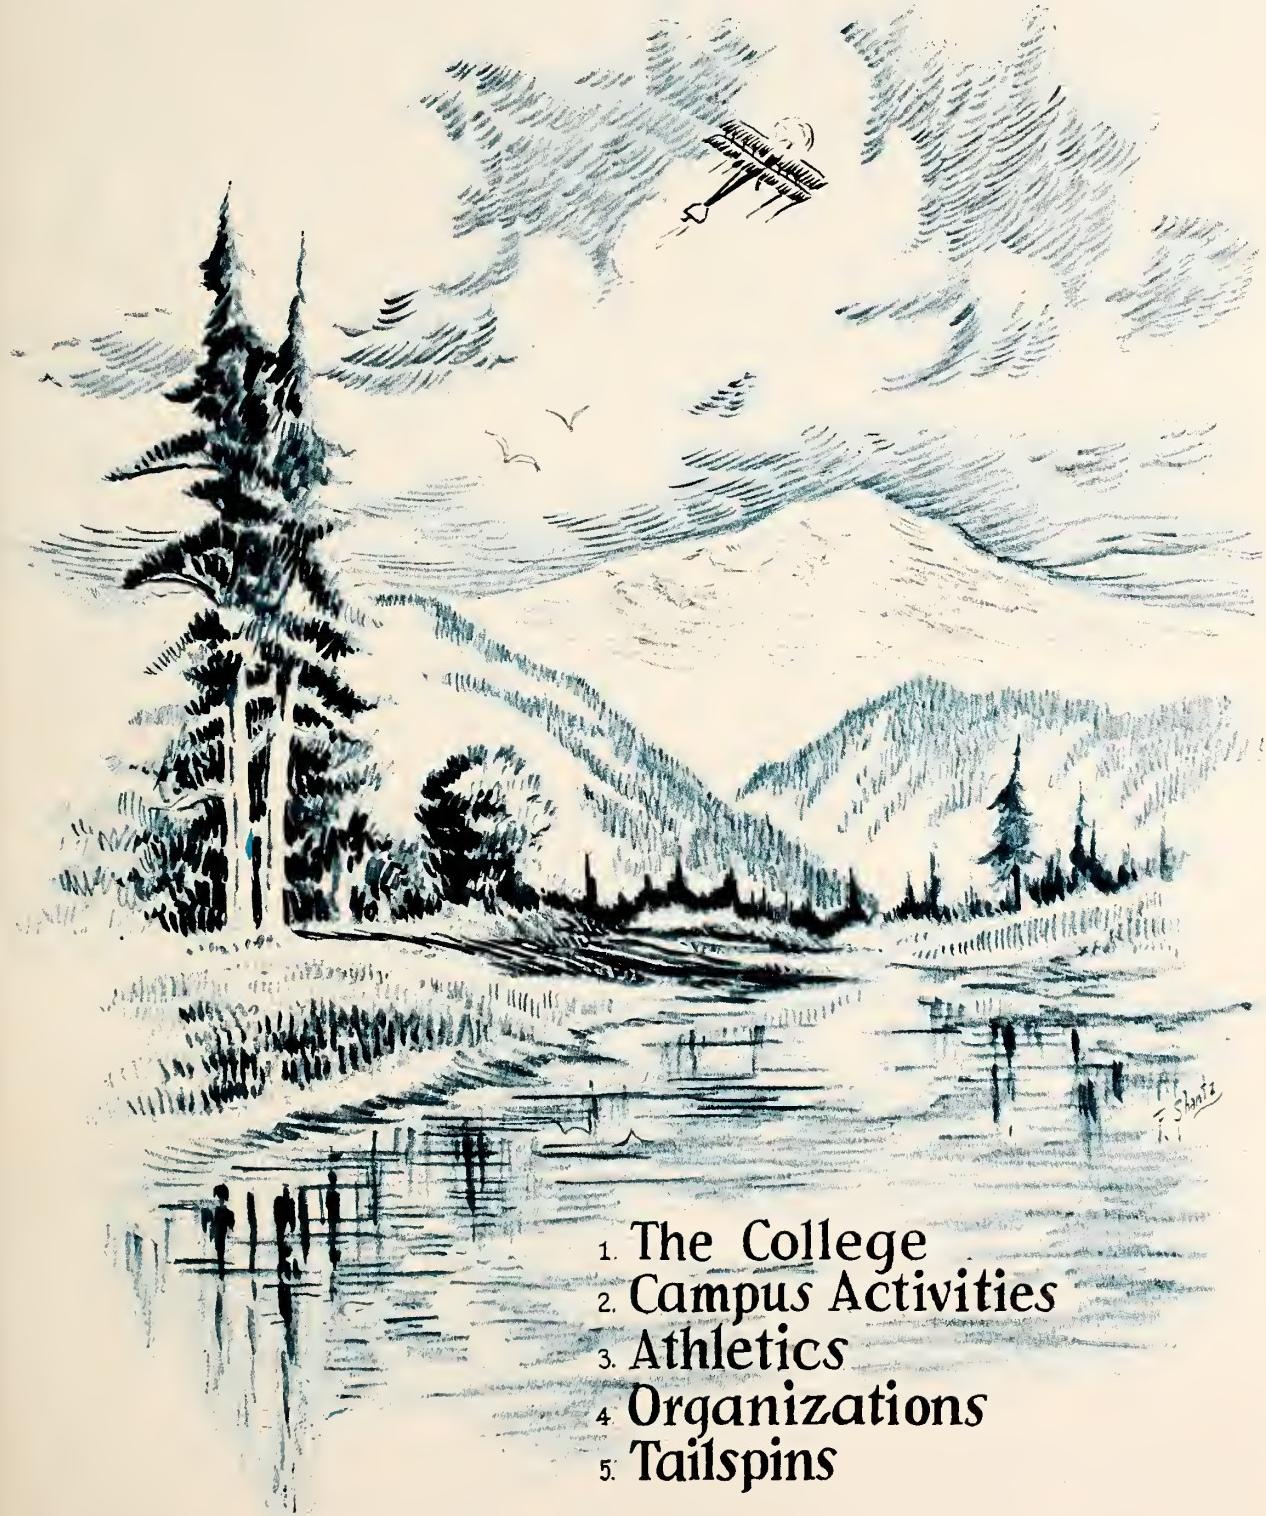

Foreword

Now buried forever in the rapidly shifting sands of time lies the year 1928-9... To have preserved a faithful record of this year, its college life and associations, has been the object of this Nugget.

DEAN HERSHY

DEAN LOVITT

DEAN LEE

Dean of the College

The office of Dean of the College is to supplement and extend the services of the President. Specifically during the past year Dean Hershey has endeavored to report the progress of the college to educational accrediting agencies and to interpret the standards set by such agencies to the college.

One of the most delightful aspects of the work of the office is to assist members of the senior class in making promising contacts for further academic and professional study or for teaching positions.

Dean of Men

Dr. W. V. Lovitt was appointed Dean of Men this year to fill the vacancy left by C. B. Hershey, who now holds the position of Dean of the College. During his first year in this office, Dr. Lovitt has very capably carried on his work and is extremely well liked.

Rapid strides have been made during the past year, several new features, such as the closer analysis of grades and encouragement of high marks having been introduced under Dean Lovitt.

Dean of Women

The department of the Dean of Women is chiefly a clearing house for the special academic problems as well as for the social activities of the women students. The Dean of Women lives in Bemis Hall, and among her important responsibilities is the supervision of the dormitories where the out-of-town students live. Organized self-government prevails among the hall residents, to which the Dean acts as adviser. She is accessible at all times for conferences with groups and individual students, town as well as hall.

Department of English

PROF. GOODENOUGH

The most outstanding contribution of the English department this year has been the inauguration of a three-course instead of a two-section plan in Freshman English. Students are grouped on the basis of their intelligence-test scores and given instruction in that material which best suits their individual need. In this way much repetition is avoided, and the experiment has been voted a decided success by the department heads.

For the first time, Colorado College has a praiseworthy literary magazine, the Centurion. It is sponsored by this department to replace the timeworn literary section in the Tiger, and gives student talent a setting appropriate to its merit.

Department of Mathematics

The Mathematics Department has been busy adjusting its program to fit the new choices in freshman mathematics. It is also engaged, with the mathematicians throughout the state, in preparing for the meeting in Boulder next August of the two national mathematics societies.

Early last fall Professor Sisam attended the International Mathematical Society at Bologna, Italy, before which he presented the results of some of his investigations. He also has delivered several addresses on mathematical topics throughout the Rocky Mountain region. Dean Lovitt is writing a book on the Elements of Statistical Method. Professor Albright is planning for a large summer school. Miss Hood received her Master's degree last June. Miss Belschner plans to obtain hers this June.

Department of Romance Languages

Headed by Professor Charles T. Latimer, the Department of Romance Languages is becoming more and more popular with the students of Colorado College. Because of the variety of its courses, ranging from beginning classes to conversational and more advanced literary courses, the department draws an increasingly large number of majors each year. Many courses in French and Spanish are offered, besides several courses in Italian and German, giving the students of Colorado College the advantage of all four.

Since all of the instructors have been abroad, the courses are presented in a form and accent acquired only from study or travel in that respective country.

PROF. LATIMER

Department of History

PROF. BINKLEY

In addition to its regular work of teaching, the Department of History has continued to show its interest in research work. Professor W. C. Binkley, the chairman, intends to spend the summer in Texas, gathering material for his History of the Republic of Texas, much of which is already finished.

Professor Archer B. Hulbert completes this year 25 years of college teaching, during which time he has written 36 books, edited 27 others, and contributed countless magazine articles. Assistant Professor J. C. Russell completed, before his resignation in January, two studies on thirteenth century literary activities. Instructor L. W. Fuller is doing work toward his doctor's degree.

PROF. WILM

To plumb the inner depths of the unfathomed mental heritage of man, the sciences of philosophy and psychology have sprung up; and in the courses offered by this department, under the instruction of Professors Wilm and Ellis, the student finds a wealth of new viewpoints, and a broader outlook upon the many problems which are as yet unsolved.

One of these problems on which students in the department are working is the study of mental growth, and it is hoped that within the next few years Colorado College can present a workable solution to the scientific world.

Coburn Library

Death has removed from our midst one of the most loved and oldest members of the entire faculty, Mr. Manly D. Ormes. A friend to all, students, faculty, and townspeople, he merited indeed the confidence and esteem accorded him.

Better fitted for the position than any other living person, Miss Louise Kampf, Dr. Ormes' assistant for the past few years, has been appointed Librarian and is discharging the duties of the office in the highly capable manner which has always characterized her work.

The most recent gift to Coburn Library is an excellent private collection of books and music, bequeathed it by the late Leslie Skelton.

Department of Classical Languages

Headed by Dr. Herbert Mierow, the M. C. Gile Memorial professor, the Department of Classical Languages occupies a pre-eminent position, for it was the ancient Greeks and Romans who laid the foundations of our modern culture. President C. C. Mierow maintains an active interest in this, his field.

Each year at Commencement the members of the department's two social organizations, Eta Sigma Phi and the Classical Club, offer a Greek play in English, one of the most beautiful of Colorado College traditions.

In addition to the purely translational courses, courses are offered in Roman private life, ancient history, and Greek drama in English.

PROF. MIEROW

Department of Business

DEAN DRUCKER

Another highly successful year for the Judson M. Bemis Department of Business Administration and Banking draws to a close. Professor A. P. R. Drucker, who was away on leave of absence last year, again heads this department. R. P. Swan, who has entered the industrial field, has been replaced the second semester by W. F. Earle.

Following its custom of presenting industry in action to the students by visits to industrial plants, several interesting trips were arranged this year.

The courses in economics and sociology have likewise been well received by many students who realize the advantages of a practical business education.

PROF. DOUGLAS

During this scholastic year the Chemistry Department has probably installed more new pieces of laboratory equipment than any other science department. Outstanding among these are: a hydrogen-sulphide generating apparatus, a reflectoscope, two new pyrometers, and electrical apparatus for the Physical Chemistry laboratory, besides equipment for use in the general laboratory.

Several research problems are occupying the attention of majors and instructors in this field, notably those concerning reduction of ores by means of platinum, low temperature carbonization of coal gas from fuel in this region, and the manufacture of gas. The latter experiment is being carried on in conjunction with the City Gas Department.

Department of Physics

The Physics Department, under the supervision of Professor Boucher is entirely in keeping with the forward looking policies of the College.

During the last ten years, thirty-five or forty students have graduated with a major in the Department of Physics and Electrical Engineering. Of this number, twenty-six have done at least one year's graduate work in physics, and there are at the present time fourteen men and women pursuing graduate courses in seven of the larger universities.

The prospects are favorable that all those who graduate this June will be placed either in teaching fellowships or in industrial positions.

Department of Geology

The Geology Department of Colorado College has successfully continued in its great strides of improvement. The department, headed by Professor I. A. Keyte, has outdone all its previous records for rapid growth and expansion.

Geology has long had wide practical application, but it is particularly since the advent of the combustion engine and the resultant development of the petroleum industry that it has sprung into major prominence. Not to be surpassed, and ever on the outlook for innovations, the Colorado College Department of Geology has kept up to the minute, with the result that it today offers as fine a course in this field as any college in the country.

PROF. KEYTE

Department of Biology

PROF. GILMORE

Ranking as one of the finest in its line the Department of Biology of Colorado College offers excellent courses for pre-medical training and biological work of all kinds. The department is well equipped with apparatus and offers many courses dealing with plant and animal life, from General Biology to Research Problems in Biology.

Biology, aside from the training along its own line, is excellent for developing sound thinking, training the powers of observation, and imparting knowledge of the fundamentals of right living. More and more possibilities are unfolding for workers in this line, and the openings for the trained biologist are becoming innumerable.

Department of Forestry

PROF. PARKER

The Colorado School of Forestry was established as a department of Colorado College in 1905 by General William J. Palmer and Dr. W. A. Bell through their generous gift to the College of Manitou Park. The Park was originally composed of 10,000 acres of farming and timber land. Since, however, nearly 4,000 acres of the agricultural land have been sold to further increase the endowment of this department. The Park is ideally situated in the heart of the Rockies and adjacent to the Pike National Forest Reserve. In addition to the technical and scientific training, a student of this department is taught to love the outdoors, and how to take care of and handle himself in it.

Department of Engineering

During the past year the Department of Engineering has shown a greater comparative increase in its enrollment of students than any other department in the College. This increase has been heartily supported by the Department through its improvements and additions to the equipment used. The remodelling of the forge department with the addition of a new fan has been of great benefit. In this department a student may obtain a degree of Bachelor of science with a major in Civil, Electrical, or Chemical Engineering. Graduates of these courses are well prepared for their work of the future, and are highly respected by fellow competitors.

Department of Biblical Literature

The work in this department is wholly elective, for the most part open to all students, and arranged in semester courses throughout, so that any student with time and inclination may enter the work of any semester without the necessity of continuing the work for a full year in order to receive credit.

All courses are taught without sectarian bias, for their world content in moral and religious values.

In addition to the work with college classes several series of lectures are given each year to groups in the city, and contacts are frequently made with various churches in the young people groups or by pulpit discourses.

PROF. MCMURTRY

Department of Education

DEAN HERSHY

The courses in Education are designed (a) to provide an introduction to the problems and achievements of the public schools and other educational agencies; (b) to meet the requirements of the State Department of Public Instruction of Colorado for a Graduate Certificate to teach in the public schools of the state; and (c) to enable students to secure credit in the necessary fifteen semester hours of Education to teach in approved high schools.

Each state has its own certification requirements, and, while Colorado College cannot undertake to meet them in every detail, the courses offered have general acceptance throughout the country.

Department of Music

DEAN HALE

The School of Music offers in particular the technical and theoretical courses that are found in the great conservatories and institutes. The obsolete rules and misguided systems have long been replaced by modern scientific methods. In the music major these are correlated to yield a thorough, organized musical education. This is the cherished purpose of the school.

Today music has become as much an academic subject as any of the other sciences. The opportunities in this field for a great future or high renown are boundless. In the music major a college education is combined with the opportunity of developing natural ability along that line.

All-round musicians with a college background are in demand everywhere to take charge of musical departments and to do work of supervisors in public schools; for this it is our business to fit our students. At the same time the School meets the demand for special training in singing and playing. The methods are modern, abreast of the latest in piano, voice, and violin, taught by teachers eminent in the West and, in fact, throughout the country. Very many of our students are teaching on their own account and doing admirable successful work.

Department of Art

The study of the appreciation and historical phases of art in Colorado College has received a great impetus through the generosity of the Carnegie Foundation. Books of rare interest and materials otherwise inaccessible to the College are now available for study, and the laboratory in Perkins is proving of ever-increasing interest to the student body. There is opportunity afforded here for comparative study of the world's masterpieces, both ancient and modern, and an opportunity offered to become acquainted with the techniques and processes employed by the outstanding men of all periods in expressing their civilizations.

PROF. LEAMING

A new course is being offered this semester on the Fundamentals of Art. Its purpose is to afford the college student a working knowledge of the terms used in art—chords, harmonies, intervals, accents—with an application in practice through study of masterpieces illustrating their meaning. In this way one comes to understand that art of all ages, differing perhaps in technique, is after all an expression of the emotion of men and an abstraction of those elements of life which fit the mood of the generation.

The Associated Students' Government

The past year has been for the Administrative Council, the governing body of Colorado College, one of marked achievement and advancement along many lines.

The Council has spent much time and labor on the formation of a new constitution for the Associated Students of Colorado College. This work is almost finished, and the Constitution will soon come before the student body for consideration. Much work has been delayed until this new Constitution could be completed, although many very important matters have been accomplished.

One of the greatest achievements is found in regard to finance. This year the Council has paid off all the debts of previous years and has incurred no new ones. This has been an enormous task, for at the beginning of the year there were several large accounts outstanding. With excellent management, however, the Council has paid these off, leaving no debts for future councils.

This year, for the first time, a delegate was sent to Columbia, Missouri, to the National Student Federation of America, of which Colorado College is a member. Harold Harmon, the delegate from Colorado College, brought back many new ideas and suggestions which have been very successfully carried out in other universities and colleges.

The Council has instituted a new custom whereby managers of various enterprises do not try to commercialize their positions, but do the work as a good-will act. Previously, managers of the various activities, such as Pan-Pan, class plays, etc., have made much profit for themselves. This year, however, much has been changed, and it is hoped that this new attitude will be a permanent one.

Several worn-out traditions have been replaced by new ones. For example, the annual all-college picnic has been supplanted by the Varsity Jubilee, which includes dancing at one of the large hotels, dinner at a downtown restaurant, and a theater party for the conclusion of the program.

The Council of the Associated Students of Colorado College has been gathering material and suggestions and formulating plans for instituting Freshman Week at Colorado College. As it seems essential that Colorado College have a Freshman Week for the new students, the Council entertains the hope that such a custom may be started here in the near future.

The Council of the A. S. C. C., having accomplished several important matters, are leaving valuable suggestions which undoubtedly will be carried out by future councils. The great success of the past year may be attributed largely to the fine spirit of co-operation and unselfish work of the officers and other council members.

Women's Student Government

The Student Government Association is the organization whose duty and purpose it is to make and enforce the rules for the girls who live in the dormitories. The government is built on a democratic plan, representing the four classes, the presidents of the three halls and the Student Government President. These representatives are elected by the girls in the halls in the spring of the year, and they make rules which seem necessary for the welfare and happiness of the entire group for the following year.

This year closes for the organization one of its most successful years, due largely to the conscious work of its officers.

Campus Activity

PICTORIAL

The long lines form for registration; the usual evening crowd gathers at Murray's for their cokes and conversation; and below, the fire in Cossitt stadium burns as high as the spirit before a football game.

The student body, led by the Growlers, parades to the train to see the team off for Utah; the send-off itself, with the thermometer hovering around the zero point; and a cross-section of the freshman's nightmare—the gauntlet.

The prize-winning decorations for Homecoming of the Kappa Sigma house stand out against a heavy blanket of snow; but a plenty warm time is had by all at the Hashers' Brawl; below, an interior view of the Kappa Sigma Homecoming decorations.

The Minerva float takes first prize against strong competition in the Home-coming parade; the Phi Gam entry wins honorable mention; while the freshmen toil to make it hot for Boulder.

The first opportunity for the seniors to wear their caps and gowns—Insignia Day; the Beta Pan Pan entry steals Al Jolson's popularity; and Harmon and Anderson, co-starring in the Phi Gams' Pan Pan prize-winner, present a little torrid lovemaking.

A few campus views: above, Palmer Hall garbed in a snowy mantle; middle, looking down the path toward Cutler on a white winter's morning; and below, looking down on the girls in Ticknor Hall from that "little bird's" viewpoint.

"The Peak, our mighty mascot, towers above"; winter sports hold the spotlight and some of the boys try their hand at the skiing game; Rubber, illustrious and traditional campus canine, consents to pose for a picture.

The crowd winds its way to a semi-monthly (?) assembly;
the original inspiration for "I faw down"; and Scotty, Rubber's counterpart in the hearts of the students.

Classes are dismissed while radios are tuned in on Hoover's inauguration; others prefer a more active life as shown on a W. A. A. hike, and below, by the Santa Fe cliff-dwellers, Harmon and Vandenberg.

The groups on the campus are actively alive; above, the Hashers drop the dishes for a picture; middle, the Foreign Relations club meets; and below, the Poly. Sci. classes snapped on the steps of the State Capitol on their trip to Denver to hear the legislature.

The library is unduly quiet and deserted during the vacation but the museum is always filled with its countless number of interesting specimens and freaks; and speaking of freaks, Chamberlain gets an eyeful of Bemis parlor propensities.

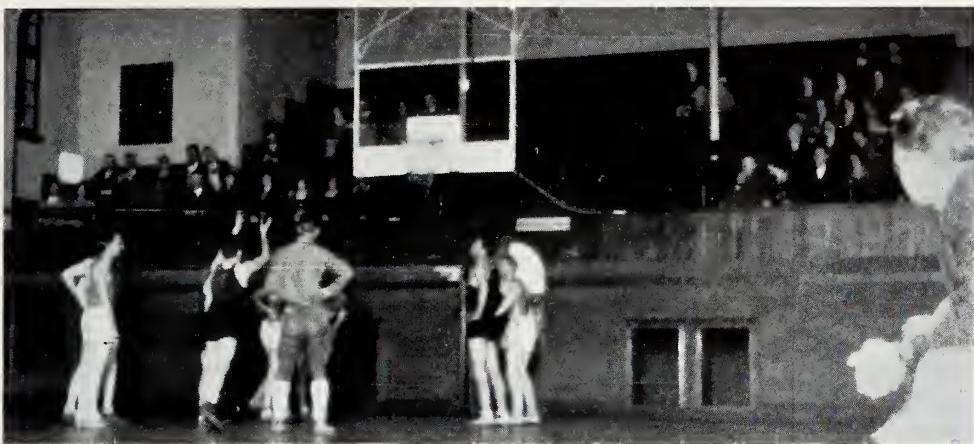

The annual open Physics lecture is well-attended; several of the Minervas let us know that we have gone far enough; while a few of the Ticknor girls demonstrate how it should be done on Broadway.

The Palmer plaque is unveiled with appropriate ceremonies; and two scenes from the Varsity Jubilee, showing the gay crowd appeasing their hunger at the Ann-Louise, and below, the "show's over" much to everyone's regret.

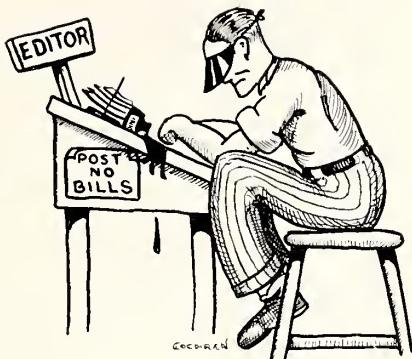

Intramural basketball proves unusually interesting: above, we have a flash from the Kappa Sig-Delta Alph game, and in the middle, the Independents-girls' champions; below, the students take advantage of a bit of spring weather to gather on the porch between classes.

Spring sports are varied and interesting: above, we have the start of a 440-yard time trial; in the middle, a few of the early birds get in shape for baseball; and below, action from the 0-0 Soph-Frosh spring football game.

The Pikes Peak Nugget

The Pikes Peak Nugget, the official student year-book of Colorado College, is published by the Junior Class each May. This, the thirtieth volume, is another exhibit in the annual struggle of a staff against limitations in experience, time, and space.

The aim of the editors has been not only to present an accurate record of the school year 1928-29 to be treasured in future years but also to portray to the whole world the Colorado College of today.

The theme of the book, portrayed in the aviation posters of the opening and divisional pages, is that of the eternal progress of civilization through the agency of education. The interest of the students of the college in the aviation field likewise makes this a peculiarly appropriate subject.

The book contains all the usual body of material, varied wherever the staff thought an improvement could be made. The more variable features, such as the cover and snapshot section, have been concentrated upon with greater interest in the book as a goal.

Many errors have been made and much limitation has been imposed by space. For every word said in these pages there are a thousand left unsaid, and for every picture there are a hundred more that would bring back in the years ahead a pleasant personality or incident. With full realization of its shortcomings, the editors submit this volume to the student body.

The Colorado College Tiger

THE Colorado College Tiger, official student publication of Colorado College is seen every Friday upon the campus. It now ranks as one of the best Collegiate papers in the state.

The Editor and the Manager are selected each spring by the Associated Student Council of the College with the advice and recommendation of the Publications Committee. No student is eligible for either of these positions unless he has shown his ability by previous good work on the staff.

By popular vote of the student body the paper has been enlarged this year to a seven column publication. This not only improves the appearance of the paper but it places it in the ranks with the biggest Collegiate publications in the state. It also gives the paper more room for special articles and features, and places it on a more independent and paying basis.

One of the most admirable aspects of the Tiger is its liberalness and broad-mindedness. Unusually good editorials have been characteristic of the paper this year. "Campus Opinion" is a section where any student may suggest needed improvements around the campus, or lay down his beliefs on any subject he wishes.

The paper is operated on nearly the exact scale of a City News edition. It has a large and well organized staff working on the various departments.

The paper not only keeps the students well informed concerning the happenings and events of the College, but it provides excellent opportunity for those who are interested in Journalism and News-paper management to gain experience and to develop their ability.

The Centurion

There has long been a need existent in the college for a publication of a general literary nature. The literary columns of the Tiger had proved far too inadequate. To fill this need the Centurion made its appearance this year. It is a student quarterly filled with works of literary and artistic interest by the students, alumni, and interested friends. The Centurion is the first venture in the purely literary field at Colorado College since the days of the Kinnikinnik, a student monthly published from 1908 to 1913.

The enthusiasm with which it has been received and its unusual success have insured the continuation of the Centurion as an official student publication. It offers an excellent opportunity for the development of the literary talent of the student body as well as presenting a truly fine magazine of its kind. The editor and manager are appointed annually by the members of the staff. The magazine is financed largely through subscriptions.

The Student Handbook

The Student Handbook, compiled during the summer for distribution at the first of the year, contains a wealth of information, valuable to old and new students alike. The editor and manager of this year's Handbook was Arlington Beery.

Enthusiasm Committee

Selby Young has efficiently managed the Enthusiasm committee for the past year. The chapel pep-meetings and side features have been well handled.

Traditions Committee

The Traditions committee is in direct charge of the maintenance of school traditions. The chairman of this committee for the past year has been Eugene Weinberger.

Pan Pan

Pan Pan, the all-college vaudeville, proved to be the best ever this year. Frank Fales capably managed the staging of the performance.

Varsity Jubilee

The success of the infant tradition of the college, the Varsity Jubilee, established last year to supplant the time-worn All-College Picnic, indicated its future possibilities. Everett Conover directed this event.

Senior Play

"Aren't We All?" was the play chosen for presentation by the Senior class. James Austin and William Robinson were co-managers.

Junior Prom

Under the direction of Harold Harmon and Franklin Emery, this year's Junior Prom was presented on a larger scale than ever before. It proved a success in every sense of the word.

Debating

One of the most interesting phases of student activities on the Colorado College campus this year is the remarkable increase in the interest and the activity in Debate. Unusually good material, an extensive schedule, and the work of managers and coaches have brought forensic activity to its highest point in the recent history of debating at Colorado College.

The official question of the annual Colorado Debate Conference was "Resolved, That a Substitute for Trial by Jury Should be Adopted." One practice debate before the Colorado Springs Open Forum and seven debates at the conference in Denver were held on this question. The C. C. debaters also used this question in a debate on the home platform with a men's team from Lawrence College.

Early in the fall, Colorado College and Denver University staged a split-team debate before the Denver Open Forum on the subject "Resolved, That Neither of the Major Political Parties Deserves the Support of the American People."

The men having had a five thousand mile trip with twenty-two debates in the spring of 1928, a trip was arranged through the states of the Middle West for the women debaters this year.

THE HOMECOMING PARADE STARTS DOWN NEVADA AVENUE

Homecoming

Homecoming last fall was probably the most outstanding single event of the year. Its unequalled success may be attributed wholly to the good old C. C. spirit which prevailed on the campus and extended to several hundred loyal alumni who acknowledged their invitations by returning to their Alma Mater as truly honored guests.

The night before the game, Friday, Nov. 16, a huge pep meeting was held for a general get-together and to let off excess "steam". At nine o'clock everyone went to the Broadmoor Hotel to attend the annual Growlers' dance. A time not soon to be forgotten was had by all.

On Saturday morning all the organizations on the campus co-operated to make the big Homecoming parade a huge success. Among the floats, worked upon into the wee small hours of the morning, many were worthy of recognition. The Minerva float won first prize.

Saturday afternoon found the largest Homecoming crowd in the history of the school assembled in Washburn stadium, in spite of a rapidly falling snow. The game itself will live as an epic in conference football history. The Tigers, giving their all, met an equally determined foe in their traditional rival, Colorado University. The Tigers could not stop the "irresistible force" in the form of C. U.'s battering ram, but gave a truly remarkable demonstration of a passing game, in spite of the slippery condition of the field and ball. C. C.'s last rally, not to be denied and cut short only by the gun, will live in the memories of the spectators for years to come.

Homecoming was gloriously ended Saturday night by the All-College dance at Bemis, as well as by dances at the Antlers and the Broadmoor. Sessions at the fraternity houses, recalling the "good old days," brought a fitting close to the 1928 Homecoming.

SOME OF THE PAN PAN PERFORMERS

Pan Pan

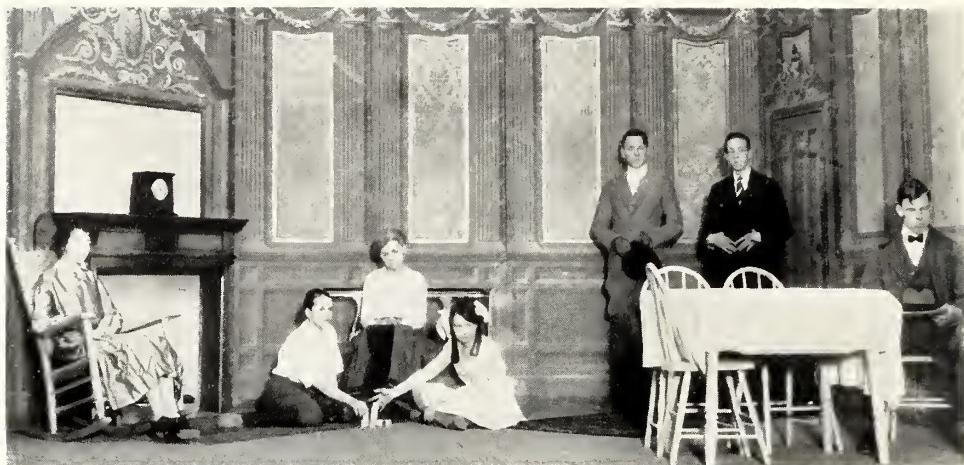

The annual all-college vaudeville, Pan Pan, was more worthy of the name "Magna" than ever before. It more than served its purpose of instilling pep into the student body before the Christmas holidays. There were ten acts offered by the different campus organizations, all of which were full of humor and proved to be most original.

The Pi Kappa Alphas started the program off with a perfect portrayal of "A Bum's Life." One of the most original acts was the true impersonation of "Sonny Boy." The Betas surely had a strong contender for Al Jolson's crown. The Phi Delt's monologue of a patent medicine doctor selling his never failing drugs was worthy of much credit. "The Wonderful Ride of Paul Revere," presented by Kappa Sigma keyed the audience up to a fine pitch. "Just Eggs" by Delta Alpha Phi, with its gondolas and constantly changing scenes, was enjoyed by all. Alternately laughing and gripping their seats, the audience was thrilled by that mighty drama "Bold Bad Bandits," presented by the Phi Gams' troupe of actors.

Outside of the Contemporaries, who presented a Mother Goose version of "Hours in the Library," the girls' societies seemed determined to dance. The Minervas staged a most realistic Apache dance, while the Hypatias found themselves "Somebody to Love" with their dummy partners. "C. C. Whoopee," by the Crescent Club, entertained with a red hot girls' chorus.

All ten acts were very good, and it was hard to reach a decision on the best. The Phi Gams, however, carried off the fraternity honors, while the Minervas came in for the society prize. Let us all hope that this year's Pan Pan will inspire others as good to start off the holidays in future years.

SCENE FROM "JANE CLEGG"

Dramatics

The first dramatic presentation of the year was "Riders of the Sea," a one-act play sponsored by the Theta Alpha Phi national dramatic fraternity. All the parts in this production were taken by students attending C. C. for the first time.

The Homecoming play, "The Flattering Word," a one-act comedy was presented in Cogswell Theater by the Koshare Dramatic Club. The annual Christmas play, "Eager Heart," which has been given as a tradition for twenty years by the girls of the college, was presented the Sunday before the Christmas Holidays.

The next major production was "Jane Clegg," a play in three acts, given by the Koshare Club on January 15 in the Little Theatre.

THE MINUET

The Colonial Ball

Each year the Sophomore girls present one of the loveliest affairs of the social season—the Colonial Ball. The event this year took place on March first. With Bemis hall transformed into a colonial ballroom, the coeds also reverted in their dress to the beautiful costumes of a century and a half ago. As usual, the long line of men, excluded from this—the coeds' function, peered through the row of windows.

The Colonial Ball has come to be one of the most beautiful traditions of the college. It was an equally important event thirty years ago, but in those days it was for the hall girls only. Now all the girls of the college are invited to attend this unique affair, dressed if possible in the styles of the colonial period.

Before the dancing, a dinner by candle-light was served at Bemis. At eight o'clock the program began with the grand march. A charming colonial dance by Lois Seebach and Dorothy Schultz followed. Immediately thereafter the chosen sophomore girls danced the minuet. The dancers were: Ruth Taub, Marguerite Lindley, Frances Ruth Armstrong, Matilda Willis, Jane Whitecraft, Vera Corlett, Veva Corlett, Virginia Rayburn, Maxine Moore, Edith Blotz, Dorothy Creager, Lucille Conroy, Lorna Dorlac, Betty Anderson, Geraldine Williams, Mary Sevier, and Geneva Wildin. Both dances, accompanied by the piano, violin, and cello, were beautifully executed.

Following the minuet, a dance until midnight occupied the attention of the colonial ladies.

THE DANCE AT THE ANTLERS

The Varsity Jubilee

The Varsity Jubilee was originated with the purpose of replacing the All-College Picnic, an ancient tradition whose success during recent years had been exceedingly doubtful.

The second annual Jubilee occupied the spotlight on the evening of March 28. The holiday spirit prevailed, spring vacation having begun at five o'clock that afternoon, and the time of their lives was had by all of the hundred or more couples attending.

The first scene was laid at the Antlers Hotel from eight o'clock until ten. The Rose Ballroom was packed with couples gliding over the polished floor to the strains of music by Johnny Metzler's orchestra. No doubt as to the jovial mood of the crowd could possibly have been entertained.

Reluctant to leave the dance so soon, the crowd next transferred to the Ann Louise cafeteria for refreshments. There the long food line formed, waiting for the excellent supper which was served. Metzler's musicians accompanied the party, and dancing was again in order.

Eleven o'clock arriving all too soon, the next move was to the America Theatre. Here a rollicking picture entirely in keeping with the spirit of the affair was enjoyed by all. Finally at the hour of twelve-thirty the show adjourned, a moonlight ride home completing the program.

The success of this year's Jubilee indicates its possibilities in the future as an all-college function. Everett Conover managed this year's Varsity Jubilee.

COACH WM. VAN DE GRAAFF

Coach William Van De Graaff

Coach "Bully" Van de Graaff, completing his third year as director of athletics at Colorado College, maintained his reputation as one of the best football coaches in the country. "Bully" is a graduate of the University of Alabama, where he played four years of football and was picked as an All-American tackle. After his graduation from Alabama, he coached a small school in Texas for a short time and then entered West Point. On graduating from West Point he went into the Army and was stationed at Alabama with the R. O. T. C. unit. After three years as freshman coach at Alabama, he came to C. C. as director of athletics and coach of football and has made the Tiger teams the most feared in the conference.

Coach Alvin G. Twitchell

Coach Twitchell came to C. C. in 1925 from Brigham Young University. He has been head coach of baseball for the past four years and head coach of basketball for the last three. While a student at the Utah Agricultural College, Coach Twitchell made a name for himself as an athlete. He played three years of football, being chosen as Rocky Mountain All-Conference fullback in 1916 and as All-Conference tackle in 1917. He won three letters also in basketball and track. After graduating, he attended the Illinois Coaching School and Rockne's Coaching School. He has had eleven years experience as a coach, four years with high schools, four years with Brigham Young, and three years at Colorado College.

COACH ALVIN TWITCHELL

Coach Jo Irish

Jo Irish, track coach and graduate manager of athletics, is, to a great extent responsible for Colorado College's success in athletics. He came to C. C. with an established reputation as a track man. He was a member of the Park Hill, Illinois, high school track team, which twice won the national meet at Chicago University. He was captain of the Freshman track team at the University of Illinois, being chosen for the broad jump on the All-American in 1917. His records include: broad jump, 24 feet; standing high jump, 5 feet $2\frac{1}{4}$ inches; 100-yard dash, 9 $\frac{4}{5}$ seconds. His efficiency as graduate manager has put athletics at Colorado College on a sound financial basis.

COACH JO IRISH

COACH WALT HUGHES

Coach Walt Hughes

Coach Walt Hughes has been a member of the coaching staff of Colorado College for the past two years. He began his work with the college as coach of the 1927 freshman football team, introducing the green candidates to collegiate football. His success last year with the green yearlings caused his transfer to work with the varsity eleven this year, where he has worked as assistant to "Bully" Van de Graaff. His specialty was coaching the back field. The phenomenal power of the Tiger offense during the past year testifies to his ability as a backfield coach.

Review of the 1928 Season

With but a small and inexperienced squad to work upon, the Tigers became, largely because they displayed the most spectacular offensive game seen in the conference in recent years, the greatest drawing card in the region by the end of the season. It is worthy of note that they scored at least two touchdowns on every team they encountered.

Outstanding was the phenomenal game played by Earl "Dutch" Clark, triple-threat artist nonpareil, who received the greatest honor ever bestowed on Presenting an unstoppable offensive drive in the second half, the fighting Bengal team overcame an early Montana lead and emerged victor by the score of 32-14. The Montana State Bobcats took full advantage of the opportunities presented in the first half and soon had garnered a two touchdown lead. Fourteen points behind would have discouraged most veteran elevens, but the inexperienced Tigers turned on the Bobcats in a twinkling of an eye and staged a sensational comeback to victory.

The score at the half stood 14-7 in the Montanans' favor. But the second half was the Bengals' by a large margin. When straight football failed to gain, beautiful passes from Clark to Ingraham or Vandenberg turned the trick. The Tiger forward wall, impregnable most of the game, turned in one of its best games of the season.

"Dutch" Clark and "Swede" Vandenberg both played exceptionally fine games, being responsible, directly or indirectly, for practically all of the Tigers' gains. On the defense, Beery was a tower of strength, ably assisted by Hayden and the rest of the line.

After a meteoric outburst on the part of the Tigers in the first period, the Western State game developed into a drab dismal contest, played before a small crowd, who were subjected to a steady drizzle of rain.

The Tigers demonstrated their potential ability early in the game, but immediately let down, battling on practically even terms with the visiting Mountaineers throughout the second half. The score at the half stood 24-0.

The last two periods saw the Bengals giving about their poorest demonstration of football during the season. Playing on a wet field with a slippery ball, without the services of Captain Vandenberg, who was removed from the game with an injured leg, and with no incentive to increase their lead, the Tigers were outscored in the last half by a game Mountaineer eleven.

Clark again starred with his running and passing, Vandenberg and "Inky" Ingraham also giving good accounts of themselves while in the game. Arley Beery proved a sensation through his stealing of Mountaineer passes, while "Fat" Hayden scintillated in the line.

Scoring in every possible method, an alert Tiger team defeated the highly-touted D. U. eleven in the Pioneer stadium. It is worth noting that the Tiger score consisted of two touchdowns, a point after touchdown, a goal from the field, and a safety. The Bengals, backfield and line, played heads-up football throughout, and the victory was well-earned.

C. C. broke into the lead early in the game on a 35 yard dropkick by Clark, who scored again shortly to give the Tigers a ten point lead. This advantage swiftly faded when Denver drove through for two touchdowns to take the lead. Ever on their toes, however, the Bengals scored a safety, followed by Ingraham's winning tally on a pass from Clark.

Vandenbergh, valiant Tiger captain, started the game with an injured leg, but his gameness and fight were an inspiration to the rest of the team. "Dutch" Clark starred as usual, with Ingraham showing uncanny ability in snagging his passes. Schisler was the mainstay of the line, opening holes and stopping Denver backs in great style.

In a game termed by many to have been the most exciting in conference history, a fighting Tiger team was nosed out by the Utah Redskins in Salt Lake City. The valiant C. C. team rose to great heights, flashing a marvelous drive which had the game won for the first three quarters.

The Tigers scored first on a pass from Clark to Ingraham. In the second period C. C. again tallied seven points, when, following a brilliant spurt of end runs by Clark, Captain Vandenberg crashed over the Ute goal-line. Utah retaliated to make the count 14-7 at the half. After Clark had increased the Tiger lead, the Utes staged a sensational comeback, flashing over three touch-downs in dazzling succession, the last two as the result of breaks in the game, to nose out a victory.

"Dutch" Clark was at his best in this game, giving what was termed by critics as "the greatest offensive demonstration by himself or any other player in the history of the conference." Vandenberg's line-smashing and the work of Hayden, Beery, and Heerwagen in the line were outstanding.

The Bengals reached the zenith of their broken-field running in the Ore-digger game, when Clark and Ingraham pranced, pivoted, and cut back to bring the old game to a 28-6 win for the Tiger camp.

The sad part of this tale was the let-down of the Tiger line, as was naturally to be expected as a result of the hard Utah game the week before. With the exception of the backfield work of the two sophomores, Ingraham and Irwin, together with the splendid exhibition of Clark, who was then making a strong bid for the All-American berth which he afterwards achieved, the Bengals were outclassed in most respects. These three players demonstrated broken-field running as it should be done.

The Blasters' offense centered itself around Carr and Simmons, who both turned in remarkable games, considering that a better team to support them would have meant victory. Carr, a phantom-like demon himself, later won All-conference honors. This game was a costly one for the Tigers, as Captain Vandenberg was injured in the first quarter, his absence being plainly felt.

Homecoming, November 17, marked the annual classic struggle between Colorado College and its oldest rival, Colorado University. Over ten thousand fans from all parts of the state witnessed the battle, which was billed as being for the state championship.

A heavily falling snowstorm, a weak line, and the Smith combination proved too heavy a handicap for the Tigers, who suffered a 24-19 defeat. The Boulder line proved to be an impenetrable barrier for C. C.'s speedy backs. It outclassed, from flank to flank, the Bengal line, which was unable to repulse the steady hammering attack of C. U. The perfect forward passing attack of the Tigers, almost uncanny in the face of the storm, was largely responsible for their three touchdowns. The traditional Tiger comeback in the last period was sensational but lacked the winning punch.

"Dutch" Clark, C. C.'s All-American, played his usual consistent game, and was the center of Bengal activity, defensively as well as offensively. All the Bengal backfield, however, showed its ability, but was greatly handicapped by the slippery field and ball.

The last home game of the season found the Tigers, led by the inimitable Clark, victorious over the Wyoming University Cowboys in a free-scoring game.

The game, while never close enough to be truly exciting, was filled with such a wide variety of football tactics that the spectators were kept on their toes throughout. There were lateral, triple, and forward passes galore, with hidden-ball plays, short kick-offs, line-plunging, good punting, and unusual dropkicking added for good measure.

"Dutch" Clark had a great day. From the very first play, when the Dutchman evaded the entire Cowboy team to run 77 yards for a touchdown, until the last of his 36 points was scored, fans were treated to a truly All-American brand of running. "Dutch" averaged about twenty yards for every time he tucked the pigskin under his arm, with a total gain of 381 yards. He also hurled eight successful forward passes for a yardage of better than 200 yards. For Wyoming, Ekdall and Thompson handled the burden of the Cowboy attack in brilliant style.

Beaten down by an Aggie eleven superior in brawn and driving power, the Tigers, nevertheless, were glorious in defeat. The game, described by Coach Hughes of the Aggies as the best exhibition given by his team in two years, not even excepting his championship team of 1927, was made interesting in spite of the one-sided score by the Tigers' indomitable fight, even when clearly vanquished.

This game marked the lowest score made by C. C. all season, as well as the highest by an opposing eleven. The Tigers' famed passing game had to give way in part to the more successful end runs of Clark and line smashes of Vandenbergh. Late in the second period it appeared as if the Bengals' fight might carry the day, but the gun cut short the C. C. rally.

Clark showed himself equally great on defense as on offense. Ingraham, who had been showing up well, was removed from the game with a badly injured knee. The Tiger line, especially Heerwagen and Southard, played its best game of the year.

Freshman Football

The chief object of the freshman squad is not to play in inter-scholastic games so much as to deliver tough opposition to the varsity and perfect technique in the individual players who will wear the black and gold in years to follow. The game scheduled with Aggie freshmen for Turkey day was hopelessly buried by a heavy snow, but the other two games were gloriously won. A team composed of subs and ineligible men from Gunnison was trounced 38 to 0, and the apprentice Pioneers suffered alike at the hands of the Tiger cubs, 19 to 0. The goal was threatened a few times in each game, but remained uncrossed throughout the season, and the team was never in real danger of being beaten.

BASKETBALL

Review of the Basketball Season

CAPTAIN "DUTCH" CLARK

First call for basketball this year was well answered when on December 4, about thirty men turned out for practice. With only two lettermen back from last year's squad, as a result of Ingraham's injury in football, Coach Twitchell had a tough proposition to face. However, prospects were brightened up a bit by the wealth of Freshman material. After several cuts in the squad, Twitchell finally picked his first team, composed of Rex and Waters, forwards; Clark, center; Hinkley and Reid guards; and backed up by Dain, Lamberson, Martin, Weller, Doyle, Smith, and Warning.

The season opened with two losses to Nebraska University by scores of 32-24 and 48-26. After dropping the conference opener to Western State by 51-38, the Bengals turned the tables the next day with a 41-29 victory. The next week Greeley Teachers came out ahead, 41-24 in an uninteresting game played on their court.

Journeying to Golden, Colorado College showed up well, defeating the Miners 32-25, by virtue of a rally led by Clark and Dain. The Tigers were not so lucky at Boulder, the Silver and Gold proving too fast and walking off with a total of 43 points to the Tigers' 32. Back on the Auditorium floor, the Bengals lost a heart-breaking game to the Teachers, 26-25. Prospects looked brighter when the Tigers defeated the strong Wyoming quintet, 27-25 in a fast whirlwind game. The team played an excellent brand of basketball that night. But when we went to Laramie, the Cowboys took a close game, 36-35, evening things up.

The Tigers next emerged victors in two slow monotonous games at the Auditorium, winning from Denver University by 32-20 and from Mines by 30-18. Then came the second contest with D. U. After some sweet playing on the part of the Bengals, they came home with the Pioneer's scalp, having defeated them 30-22. Boulder again proved the Bengals' downfall in the last game of the season. After leading until the final quarter, the Tigers dropped the contest to C. U.'s sharpshooter by a 35-27 score.

Colorado College finished up the season with a record of six wins and the same number of defeats, tying for fifth place in the conference.

"DUTCH" CLARK

BILL HINKLEY

ERNIE WATERS

The Team

In CAPTAIN DUTCH CLARK, the teams of the Eastern Division of the Rocky Mountain Conference found a formidable opponent, both in the offensive and defensive departments. Time after time he would dribble down the floor at a furious speed, pass to either Rex or Waters for setup shots, or try for a tally with one of his famous one-hand shots, usually making them count. On the defensive side, he was a great help, stopping the passes or dribbles of his opponents with lightning-like ability.

BILL HINKLEY proved to be a very able guard. He was the only letterman, other than Clark, back from last year. Bill played excellently in every game, getting the ball off of the opposing team's backboard and either passing down the floor to one of the C. C. forwards, or dribbling to a position where he could shoot when the others were guarded. "Hink" broke up many a hair-raising play under the basket, that would have meant points to the enemy, in addition to sinking a few neat ones for the Tigers.

ERNIE WATERS, the "black-headed" forward of C. C. worked right into the teamwork of the Tigers and proved his ability to wear our colors on the hardwood floor. Although small, he was everywhere on the court, always fighting for the ball. He was almost sure to get it if it was within ten feet of him. His ability to be fast on his feet gave many an opposing team much worry as to how to stop him from scoring. Ernie will help Colorado College greatly in his remaining three years here.

JUAN REID

EVERETT REX

ART DAIN

The Team

JUAN REID was the other regular guard, and was a scrapping one. He proved a capable mate for Hinkley and was always in plays that garnished points for the Tigers. He improved as the season went along, and should be A-1 guard before he leaves C. C. Between his work on the defensive side of the game, and his ability to score at critical times, Juan helped the team in every possible way.

EVERETT REX, the other pony forward, played like a veteran. His scoring eye worked to perfection in all games and his general all-around ability was a valuable asset to the team. He was especially adept at taking passes from Clark or Waters and converting them for points. On the defense, he broke up many of the enemy's plays, time and again, and brought the crowd to its feet many times with his spectacular shots from the corner.

ART DAIN was one of the Tiger reserves last year. However, this year, Coach Twitchell saw in him the making of a good guard, and accordingly used him in many games, with the result that the Tigers were benefited greatly. Art showed real form in his ability to guard closely, and could always be depended on to sink a few "hot ones" in the games he played in. He is an all-around man on the basketball court, and promises to do much with the Tigers next year.

BOB DOYLE

GENE WELLER

GUY MARTIN

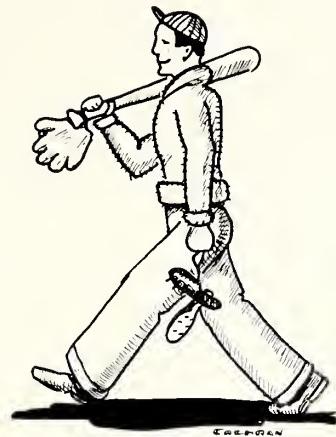

The Team

BOB DOYLE, a reserve forward, was rushed into the games at critical periods, and proved his worth. This tall Freshman was valuable to the team in many ways, being able to sink long shots, and at the same time, play a beautiful floor game. Coming from Dodge City, Kansas, where he was a star on the High School team, he made good here and will be with us for three more years.

GENE WELLER was another boy who made good. Coming from Denver he showed the right kind of fighting spirit, with the result that he saw action in several Tiger contests this year. He was especially good on the defense, and seemed to know just which way the ball was going to come. He should be able to help the Bengals much in his remaining three years of basketball.

GUY MARTIN is another one of the Freshmen members on the squad. He was in several games and impressed spectators with his general all-around ability. He fits in just right with both the Tiger offense and defense. Within the next three years, Coach Twitchell should be able to use Guy with good results for C. C.

CAPTAIN SCHISLER

Track and field representatives of Colorado College spread the fame of the Tigers in seven meets during the season, under the leadership of Coach Jo Irish and Captain Schisler. A squad of about twenty-five men remained throughout the season, of whom fifteen or more attended all the meets. Sarcander, Clark, Schisler, Parker, Penberthy, and Vandenberg performed in top-notch style consistently, and brought home a basket-full of points from every contest.

The season's opener was a dual meet with the University at Boulder, in which the team was initiated into competition of the severest kind. The fact that one-third of the points remained in the Tiger camp proves that C. C. showed up well, even against the eastern division champions. Clark was high point man of the meet, with 16 points to his credit. The feature event, the mile relay, was won by the fast Tiger quartet, Knowles, Penberthy, Chappell, and Schisler.

The following Saturday, April 21, adverse weather caused the cancellation of the scheduled triangular contest with C. U. and D. U. In the third annual Conference Relays at Boulder, on April 28, eleven records were broken, among which was the pole vault, raised first by Sarcander, and again by an aviator from Aggies. The mile relay team placed second, and the two-mile team third.

The flying Tigers swept the field away from the Golden and Gunnison teams on May 5 on Washburn field. The points were: C. C. 75½, Western State 48½, Mines 18. Nothing exceptional developed at the meet, the neck-and-neck race of Parker of C. C. and Saunders of W. S. in the two-mile being the most interesting event.

Handicapped by the absence of Clark, the cinder boys trailed close on the heels of D. U. in a quadrangular meet, with Teachers and Mines looking on. Sarcander and Parker tied for high point honors, but no records were broken because of a high wind.

C. C. placed well up in the Eastern Division meet, the following week at Boulder. Sarcander carried off the only first place for the Tigers in the pole vault, but a large quota of seconds and thirds swelled the C. C. total to a significant score. The mile relay team encountered bad luck, Speir pulling a tendon in his leg.

The season was creditably closed at the Conference meet on May 25-26, in which eighth place among sixteen contending colleges was achieved. Sarcander, Clark, Parker, and Downing were largely responsible for this showing.

CAPTAIN HERSTROM

The baseball squad swung into action under the direction of Coach Alvin Twitchell the first week in March, with a group of sufficient size and some promise, but weak in one or two vital points. Six experienced men reported for the nine, but Anderson was the only pitcher of proven merit to appear among these. The freshman pitcher, "Inky" Ingraham, was forced to carry one end of the hurler's burden without relief. Captain Herstrom and his minions gave the pitcher's box rather consistent support, but the title still eluded their grasp by quite a safe margin.

The initial expedition of the year was to Greeley, for a series with Teachers College on the 27th and 28th of April. Losses of five to one and sixteen to five were suffered there, as the hits of the opposition seemed to cluster into fatal constellations which sent across the winning runs in a few scattered innings. In the second game Irwin had the misfortune to be called out after having run the circuit on his homer, because he seemed to have missed the second bag. Both games were played in a dreary spring drizzle, on a well-sprinkled field.

The next Friday, the game went to Denver University on their home diamond by the one-sided score of 17 to 4. The Tigers played a tight game the following day, but were nosed out by 3 runs to 1. Although the Tiger batsmen were able to tally nearly as many hits as their opponents, they seemed unable to collect enough in a single inning to push across many scores. Anderson, in this second game, pulled himself together, fanning thirteen men with veteran coolness, only to have his support momentarily waver in the eighth with the resultant downfall.

Baseball

May 12th and 13th found the Tigers in Fort Collins for a series with the Aggies. The game scheduled for Friday had to be postponed because of weather conditions, with a double-header being played on Saturday as a result. As a complete surprise to news writers and prophets, the Black and Gold crowded Aggies out in both games, with scores of 2-1 and 3-1. The Tigers played a pair of precise tight games against an ever-threatening Farmer nine. Ingraham held the Aggies to four hits in the opener, while Anderson pitched superb ball in the second game to allow only two safe blows.

On a soggy field, and with fitful showers of rain, the day went in favor of C. U. on the nineteenth of May, both teams playing a ragged disinterested game. The score was 7-1, in favor of the Silver and Gold. The following day found the Boulderites again on top by a score of 4-1.

Men who received their letters were: Captain Herstrom, Thierfelder, Anderson, Wade, Gibbs, Hinkley, Irwin, Young, and Ingraham.

Sigma Delta Psi

Sigma Delta Psi was founded at the University of Indiana in 1912, the Colorado College chapter being installed in 1914. It is an honorary athletic fraternity. Eligibility to membership requires the meeting of very difficult and varied athletic tests. Tryouts are held each spring and fall for prospective candidates.

Early in March a call was issued for candidates for the tennis team, and practice began for perhaps the most successful season on the courts that Colorado College has witnessed for several years. The unusually fine playing and point-gaining ability of the racquet troupe was largely due to the interest and coaching services of Ernest G. Moll, professor in English.

The first tournament was to have been played with Denver University, but heavy showers caused its postponement, and the first contest of the year was accordingly with Teachers College, at Greeley, where the Tiger net squad came off with a tie, almost outdoing their own expectations. The loss of Captain Moses, key-man of the team, by his being declared ineligible two days before the game was such a severe handicap that a win in half the matches was a decided encouragement.

The season wore on with rain blocking play-off of each scheduled contest until May 18 when a match with Colorado University on the Quackenbush courts was arranged. Again the Tiger netmen won one doubles match and two singles for a tie.

Finally, on the 27th of May, the oft-postponed dual meet with Denver was played. A finished and efficient Tiger team took the meet handily, winning three singles and one doubles match.

The 1928 season was the first in the competition of many years in which the Tigers were undefeated in match play. The four men who played all the matches and received letters were: Bray, Danson, West, and Bender.

Three schools in the conference are all that compete for honors on the links, but the competition between Denver University, Colorado University, and Colorado College is so stiff as to make every match on the different courses a close-fought contest. The Tiger team was unfortunate in losing the larger number of their veterans, and a winning team was by no means a certainty in the early Spring. Captain Armstrong, Field Phelps, and Killian, as lettermen, were ably supplemented by Shonsby and Franklin Emery, however, and the four tournaments were played with many a low score and excellent shot for Colorado College.

In the first meeting, a thirty-six hole bout on the links of the Denver Country Club, Shonsby was artful enough to win his match, and two other members of the delegation placed second to the intrepid Denver players.

The second contest, a triangular meet, was played at the Broadmoor Country Club on May 12, in the face of a heavy driving rain, and on a soggy course in which the balls plopped dead. It was abandoned after eighteen holes, with Colorado U. in the lead and C. C. a close second in the point scores, Armstrong and Killian winning their matches.

May 18 and 19 two hard matches were played in Denver. The first, on the Willshire Country Club, was won by Denver, while C. C. and C. U. divided honors for second at ten and one-half points each. On the Cherry Hills course the following day, the teams from Denver and Boulder were both quite at home, and the visitors from down-state did well to place a close third.

Interfraternity Baseball

Culminating an exciting series in indoor baseball the Phi Gamma Deltas, winners of the American league, defeated the Phi Delta Thetas, winners of the National league, 3-2, in the finals of the intramural baseball league. Playing a snappy brand of ball the Fijis remained undefeated throughout the series and retained the school championship for the second successive time.

The Phi Deltas were undefeated in their league and were only defeated in the final game. A homerun in the first inning, and a slugging bee in the second, brought home the bacon for the Phi Gams.

Interfraternity Track

In the final athletic contest of last year the Phi Gamma Delta track and field stars took the annual interfraternity meet at Washburn field. The Kappa Sigmas, by winning most of the weight events and placing in the runs, took 22 points to the Fijis 41.

A fine rain fell for a good part of the time on the field which accounts for the slow times being made in some of the events. Good time was made in the dashes however, and the jumps were up to the standard of college competition. Cal Thierfelder of the Kappa Sigs took high point honors with 13 points, while Harry Hampton of the Phi Gam team came in second with 11 points.

The meet was conducted on an entirely different basis from previous years and was held after the regular track season was over. Letter men were also barred from competition, thus giving everyone an equal chance and making the struggle for positions keener.

Interfraternity Basketball

Climaxing one of the most exciting and thrilling intramural basketball series that has been held in recent years, the Sigma Chi quintet defeated the Phi Gamma Delta five 23-18 in a play-off game that was necessary due to a tie at the end of the regular schedule. Many close games were played and some very good basketball displayed making the competition keen and interesting.

The final game brought together the two best teams in the tournament and was featured by the brilliant offense of Heter and Slocum of the Sigma Chi's who could not be stopped even by the close guarding Fiji outfit. Van Dyke, Cogan, and Danson starred for the Phi Gams.

Kappa Sigma

The original fraternity of Kappa Sigma was founded at the University of Bologna during the fifteenth century. During this period, large bands of robbers roamed about the country and a group of students banded themselves together in a brotherhood to protect themselves from these bandits. In 1869 at the University of Virginia, a distinctly Southern fraternity was founded. This fraternity, now a true national fraternity, used the old ritual, precepts, and doctrines of the ancient Kappa Sigma brotherhood. The founders included William McCormick, George Arnold, Edmund Rogers, Jr., Frank Nicodemus, and John Boyd. The chapters of Kappa Sigma are now scattered all over the United States, and there is one chapter in Canada. There are a hundred and five chapters, and over twenty-five thousand members in the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

The Beta Omega chapter of Kappa Sigma was the first national fraternity chapter established at Colorado College. In 1904, this chapter then known as the Phi Upsilon Sigma fraternity, received its charter. Denver University, the University of Colorado, and the Colorado School of Mines have chapters of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Sigma Chi

The Sigma Chi fraternity was founded at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, on June the twenty-fifth, 1855. Sigma Chi is the youngest fraternity of the group known as the Miami Triad. During the first year of the existence of this fraternity, it was known as Sigma Phi, but at the end of the first year, the name was changed to Sigma Chi. When the men of the South left their colleges to join the Confederate Army, they took their fraternal organization with them. A chapter was granted to a group of men in the Confederate Army of Tennessee under the command of General Joseph E. Johnston. At the present time, there are eighty-seven active chapters of this fraternity. The University of Toronto has a chapter at Toronto, Canada. The total membership of the fraternity numbers nearly twenty-five thousand.

In 1905, two local fraternities of Colorado College united under the direction of the Sigma Chi Alumni of Denver, Colorado, and, under the name of Beta Phi, petitioned the Sigma Chi national fraternity. The installation was held at the Cave of the Winds. There are two other chapters of Sigma Chi in Colorado—one at the University of Colorado, and one at the Colorado Agricultural College.

Phi Gamma Delta

The first chapter of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity was founded at Jefferson College at Canonsburg, Pennsylvania on May the first, 1848. The six founders, all of whom were Masons, were law students at the college which at a later date united with Washington College to form the present Washington and Jefferson. Extension was limited to Southern Colleges before the Civil War. After reorganizing the chaos, which was the result of the war, the fraternity of Phi Gamma Delta worked out a national conservative policy of extension. At present there are sixty-eight chapters in the United States, and a chapter at the University of Toronto. Executive power is vested in conventions called Ekklesiae. Between Ekklesiae, the affairs of the fraternity are administered by a Board of Archons of five officers.

In the latter part of the year 1897, a few Senior and Junior men at Colorado College formed a club using it as an incentive toward securing a charter from some national college fraternity. Because of the opposition of the student body and the college authorities, no further action was taken until 1904, when the Chi Sigma Gamma club was organized. In 1908, a charter was granted to this local group by the Phi Gamma Delta national fraternity. The eighty-first Ekklesia was held recently in Colorado Springs. The only other chapter of Phi Gamma Delta in the Rocky Mountain Conference is at the University of Colorado.

Phi Delta Theta

On December the twenty-sixth in the year 1848, the Phi Delta Theta fraternity was founded at Miami University. Before the time of the Civil War, the fraternity had a sound foundation and a goodly number of chapters. However, the war left its mark on further expansion and by the close of the war, only five chapters remained. For a time, a very conservative extension policy was followed, but at the present time there are ninety-seven chapters. The government of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity consists of a Grand Council which has full executive power over all the chapters. The chapters are divided into sections called provinces. The districts south of the Mason Dixon line and west of Pennsylvania have supplied the majority of the membership of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

In 1909, the Alpha Tau Delta local fraternity was organized at Colorado College with the purpose of petitioning some national fraternity. In 1913, a charter was granted to this local fraternity by the Phi Delta Theta national fraternity. The Alpha Tau Delta became known as the Colorado Beta chapter of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Other chapters in Colorado are at Colorado University and Colorado Agricultural College.

Beta Theta Pi

The oldest of the Miami Triad, the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, was founded in 1839. This fraternity is one of the oldest national fraternities which has survived the test of time. Beta Theta Pi had three chapters in the Middle West before the Civil War. Even to-day the majority of the chapters of the fraternity are located in the Middle West. In 1879, Beta Theta Pi united with the Alpha Sigma fraternity. This fraternity had many chapters in the middle Atlantic states. In 1889, again a union took place. This time the fraternity secured a following in the South Atlantic states from the Mystical Seven fraternity. These unions made the Beta Theta Pi fraternity national in scope. Now there are eighty-five chapters with a membership totaling thirty thousand.

In 1906, several freshman men of Colorado College organized a local fraternity. To make their organization have a strong foundation, they took no men who would graduate before 1910. In 1914, this local group received a charter from the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. The installation was held on September the third at the Antlers Hotel. There are chapters of Beta Theta Pi at the University of Colorado, at Denver University, and at the School of Mines. For the fourth time, the Beta Gamma chapter at Colorado Springs were the hosts to the national convention last summer.

Pi Kappa Alpha

On March the first, 1868, three former Confederate soldiers founded at the University of Virginia, the first chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha. During the first few years after this fraternity was established, extension was allowed only in the universities of the South. Much difficulty was at first encountered as the Southern University had become seriously disorganized during the Civil War. Until 1889, the chapters were governed by a mother chapter. At present, a supreme council is in charge of the government between biannual conventions. After 1909, the policy of extension of Pi Kappa Alpha changed from a sectional to a national policy. At present there are seventy-four chapters distributed at large throughout the United States. The membership numbers nearly ten thousand.

In 1907, an organization composed of the Engineers of Colorado College, was founded on the campus to promote the spirit of engineering work outside of the regular curriculum. In 1917, during the World War, courses of engineering at Colorado College were not offered; hence, the club was merged into a social fraternity. On December the twenty-second, 1920 the local group received a charter from the Pi Kappa Alpha national fraternity. There are two other chapters of Pi Kappa Alpha in Colorado; one at the University of Colorado and one at Denver University.

Delta Alpha Phi

During the second semester of the school year, 1924-25, there was a group of men at Colorado College who were held closely together by the bonds of friendship. In order to bind themselves in an organized fashion, they formed the Delta Alpha Phi social fraternity. Keeping their number restricted, they had at the end of the second semester, a membership of twenty-one. For the first time, they were able to initiate their pledges. Having selected men who would come back to school, the Delta Alpha Phi fraternity had a strong aggregation at the beginning of the next year. The fraternity now had a good foundation, and each year showed a marked improvement in its activities. Their present home is located at 831 North Cascade.

Although the Delta Alpha Phi is the only local fraternity on the campus, it has been competing on an equal basis with the national fraternities. Since the year of its founding, the Delta Alphs have been pushing the national fraternities to a higher standard in all activities. This year, they won the scholarship cup for the third time; this secured for them permanent possession of the cup.

Alpha Kappa Psi is a professional business fraternity founded for the purpose of fostering scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounts, and finance. The Sigma chapter was installed at Colorado College in 1919. The annual one-act playlet by the Alpha Kappa Psi pledges at Assembly has become a tradition in the school year.

Theta Alpha Phi

NATIONAL DRAMATIC FRATERNITY

Founded at Oklahoma A & M College, 1918

Established at Colorado College, 1919

Membership in Theta Alpha Phi has always been a much sought-after prize. The requirements for membership are very high, and the number belonging has never been large. Only those who have shown some marked ability in dramatics are eligible. With the increased interest in dramatics and the enlarged activity of Koshare Dramatic Club, it is probable that there will be more students able to meet the requirements for initiation.

NATIONAL FORENSIC FRATERNITY

Founded at Butler University, 1908

Established at Colorado College, 1916

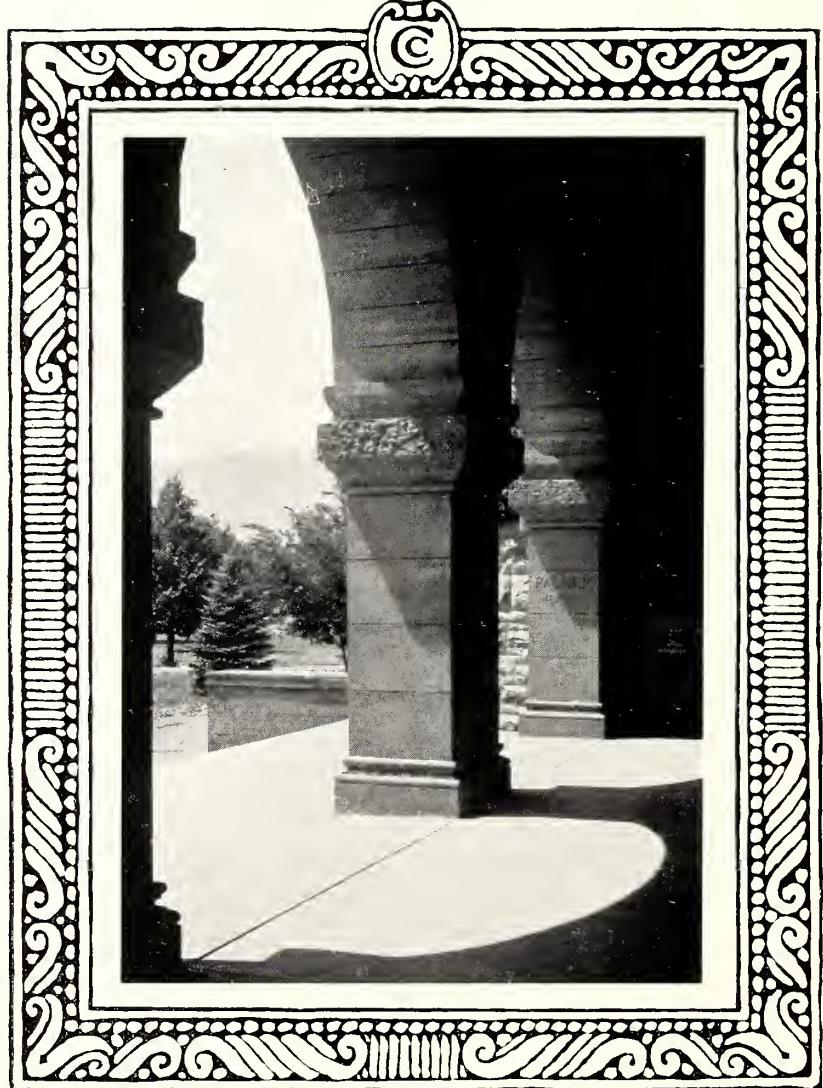

The very attractive scroll key of Tau Kappa Alpha is now worn by more Colorado College students than at any time since the charter was received. The great increase in the interest of Colorado College students in debating has resulted in better work and in a larger and more able group eligible to wear the key.

Participation in two or more intercollegiate debates is one of the minimum requirements for membership in the fraternity. In addition to the student members listed below, there is a fine group of students new in college debating this year who are now eligible.

The Girls' Glee Club of Colorado College acquitted itself well during the year 1928-29. Its annual concert in November of 1928 was one of the best and most original in years. The club presented its concert in neighboring towns, where it scored artistic successes. It also assisted with the Eager Heart program, sang over the radio, and gave a program in connection with the annual music week.

Several years ago the Forestry students of the college organized a club in order to promote good fellowship among those interested in this subject. The Foresters are thrown, perhaps, into closer contact with one another than students in other departments, for each June they go to Camp Colorado for a few weeks to study the trees found in the Manitou Forest nearby.

SEE! SEE!

Preface

God gave us artists in order that they might paint pictures of fruit in the summer time that might be hung on our dining room walls in the winter to remind us of the days of plenty which have passed us. It is because of this that we, the editors, have presumed to present this resume of the happenings on our campus during the past year.

In compiling this little volume, we have been so patriotic as to include only those features of the campus life which would come under some title that would contain two words, each of which would begin with the letter C, thus making the theme of each title the letters C. C., whose meaning is only too clear to those men who have had to come before the "Reinstatement Committee." So if some pet charity with which you are connected or some activity in which you are particularly prominent is left out, attribute it to the lack of ingenuity on the part of the editors and thank the Gods on Olympus that there was something that we could forget.

CHAPTER I. Chamber of Commerce

The first chapter of our discussion will deal with the Chamber of Commerce, alias the Associated Student Council of Colorado College. This august body is headed by a duly elected chairman, run by a duly elected treasurer, and misgoverned by the rest of that unusual collection who were elected upon an anti-graft platform. The women of this group cheerfully yes anything that Wade, that genial, hail fellow, suggests. A few of the less experienced men endeavor to think for themselves but are overawed by the seniority of Herstrom who, by the way, is under-studying Mr. Postlethwaite and of Emmerson and are depressed by the ready approval which Dewey, Moore, and Benning have for anything that the older men, and especially the handsome men, suggest. Mary B. Clark sometimes drops in for a moment's chat but usually her superior foresight keeps her away from the assembly. Harmon is the big committee man and is nearly overburdened with his duties, for the crown never rested lightly upon the shoulders of an efficiency expert.

The Sophomore and most of the Juniors on this council are hardly worth mentioning, for all that they are good for is to fill the vacant seats. The faculty members usually are absent because the wife wants to play bridge.

CHAPTER II.

College Chapel

We have been experimenting and we yet don't know what we have in the way of chapel or assembly programs. At eight, when comes our first opportunity to be religious, most of us are busily engaged in gaining extra beauty in our beds. As a result the leaders of this college devotional have had this extra practice to bring to perfection the presentation of their speeches which they will be able to use for the next twenty years whenever an audience can be gotten together.

Then come the assemblies. These are of two varieties, those which are compulsory and those which are not held. The first group is divided into those for the faculty and those for the students; but the students have to listen to both types. The second class is not subdivided.

The faculty assemblies are opened by President Mierow, the students continuing with their conversations at times of introductions, for it is not such a vital matter because the Tiger will take the introductory speech almost word for word and enlarge on it so that we may know that so and so spent fifteen years in the Andes looking for tropical plants, etc.

As for the Student Assemblies

When Wade gets up to read announcements, a breathless hush settles over the audience. We believe that the cause of this is that all of us are afraid that we shall miss the moment when our name is called and then we won't have the opportunity to squirm uncomfortably in our seats and pretend that we aren't proud that our names are such prominent by-words on the campus. Then the time approaches when Rubber finds his master, and from then on Wade has company before that huge rostrum and that unsympathetic audience.

CHAPTER III.

Collegiate Capers

One might think that this chapter was to be concerning the pranks which are played by that harmless species of the human race "Collegiatus," but in that he would be wrong. Collegiate Capers refers to the prevalent craze for dancing and not the dancing of the stately minuet, or the courtly waltz, but the dancing of the latest by the men of the college in the pink of condition.

There have been three notorious parties this year, the Growlers' Dance, the Homecoming All-College, and the Hashers' Brawl. These will be taken up in detail and considered from every permissible point of view.

CHAPTER IV.

Crazy Collegians

This is rather in the nature of a blanket indictment of the men and women, so-called, of our institution but due to lack of space we will confine our attention to a few of the most notorious.

The first serious matrimonial quarrel between President Wade and equally prominent Miss Taub has been over the question of whether they should live with the Taubs in Pueblo or with the Wades in Denver. We hope that this is satisfactorily settled before the approaching nuptials.

Mr. Foote, sterling member of the Junior Class and well known in campus circles for his recent affliction, is seriously in love with Miss Adda Smith. Of course this is rather a trite remark since their mutual affair has been the talk of the campus for some time, and it is hoped that such a wonderful girl may bring about an unusual change for the better in this radical young man.

Young Gordon Minter shied as he approached the gates of the matrimonial corral and, as far as we know at present, is still at large.

Dynamic Selby, after experimenting with posters, firecrackers, coal, and automobile horns, has decided that the only pep to be found here comes in green boxes and is put up by Kellogg's and Co.

Commercialist and Capitalist Bevan, in spite of a luxurious town car, has been captured by no one for any length of time and is generous enough to divide his affection among as many as possible. It might well be said of him, "He has a heart as big as the world."

Miss Crowder is going to Nevada to get heart balm after trying unsuccessfully to make someone care through that well known medium, the God of Jealousy.

Robert Caldwell has confined his attention to his lessons after trying for some time to become an unusual radical, if there is such a thing.

Pat Brown is going to a finishing school, doncha know, after she has conquered this rather limited campus.

Miss Trippel is gaining such education that she may succeed Miss Bramhall as one of the prominent feminists in politics.

Cindy Hunter says, "Byrd, I wish I were with you, down among the Icebergs."

Leomore, we're grateful to you for bringing your sister up right and getting her to tread in your footsteps. After all—the president of the Frosh is not one to be sneered at.

Miss Dewey is trying to decide whether she prefers dramatics and political ability, combined with non-commercial attitude, or whether she would prefer a home in Pueblo with a less talented young man.

After vacations, a difference is noticed, when Sun Kissed California again returns to the campus, even though it is a few days late.

Mr. Jenks, the great journalist, was in love during the first semester. Consequently some of Whiz Bang's jokes were allowed to creep into the columns of our paper and the editor was sub rosa for a time. Then he decided that Boulder was a long ways off, and again the editor came into the limelight and put his name at the top of the paper.

FAMILY TIES

Delta Alphs, drawn together by a literary bond, were holding their weekly discussion of Shakespeare and doing other scientific research, when suddenly they were rudely interrupted.

"What ho!" cried Ragle. "Oh, my dear Burnham, I see by the paper a tremendous number of easaulties!"

"Ah, my dear Ragle, what paper?"

"Forsooth, nitwit, the fly paper."

And Vestal, shifting his feet to the transom of the door, lit a fresh pipe, continued the reading of Shakespeare's Lucreea, and soon having finished that, turned to "The Passionate Pilgrim."

"If that the world and love were young,
And truth in every shepherd's tongue,
These pretty pleasures might me move
To live with thee and be thy love."

"Ah, them were the days. By Gad an' they were," mused Veeder.

"Aye, aye, sir, 'tis not false!" continued Cummings.

Over in one corner of the room McEnany was bending over a flower, peering intently through a magnifying glass. It seemed he was intent upon discovering which way the pollen on the anther of the dandelion faeed—north or south. After several experiments it was unanimously decided that it faeed north-east.

And at the stroke of ten Woodward and Asay arose, beat their way through all scattered books and broken furniture which had resulted from such a strenuous evening, and entering the kithehen started to brew the tea.

THE SWEETHEART OF PI K. A.

"In the spring a young man's fancy
Lightly turns to thoughts of love."

And besides that the spring formals were coming. The Pi K. A.'s must rate some parties. So one day late in April it was decided that the campaign should start, and for days following, tall stately dames, short stubby

"No, Herbert, I've No Job for You
---Unless You're a Stenographer"

When young Herbert Hoover graduated from college, he decided that his greatest opportunity lay in securing a position with a foremost engineer in California. The only vacancy this famous man had in his office was for a stenographer, and he had intended to employ a girl. Hoover begged for the job, entered Business College immediately, and in two weeks by dint of hard study he qualified himself to fill the position.

The Pi Kaps' dilemma—how to put out their pins and pledge buttons.

CAMPUS CLUBS

ones, the Hyps and the Zetalethians, the Contemps and the Minervas, the Question and Crescent club girls, all were rushed by the Pi K A's.

But alas, 'twas the false play of Weinberger that caused the downfall of all their high-built hopes.

Ten girls had he been dating, ten girls he had confessed his passionate and undying love for, and soon, too, ten girls had he offered his pin. It would end something like this:

"Yes, that is true," he would muse, "but if you ever can care enough, phone me and I'll bring my pin over to you."

And when the girl got home she would say, "Oh, I could have had a Pi Kap pin tonight, girls." And in another week there were nine other girls boasting of the same thing.

And finally one day when the phone rang at the Pi K A house, it was for Weinberger.

"Hello, this is Sally speaking, well, er—I—a—have—"

"Oh, yes, I quite understand," he replied, "and I'll be right over with it." And he was.

But he'd no sooner returned home than the phone rang again and she said, "This is Betty, you know that pin you told me I could have. Well, I've decided to accept it."

"But er—a—Oh, Smith wants to use the phone, could I call you back in a minute. Goodbye." But he never did.

All the day the phone kept ringing, and that night, by chance, the Pi K A to-be-sweethearts met in the hall at Bemis.

"Have you gotten your Pi Kap pin yet," said one.

"Oh, yes, I got it today, but do you know it was too thrilling.—And he told me that I was the light of his life and his first love and—"

"What," cried several others. "Why that's what my Pi K A told me. Who was he?"

And when they found out he was the same one, they sighed "Well, I'll be darned." And going into a huddle they talked long and fast, for revenge was to be sweet.

The Pi Kaps were quite ignored the next day, for their girl friends did obviously not see them, and in the afternoon mail was a package for each and every Pi Kap—the symbol of a rejected love—his fraternity pin.

Everything that makes a shoe good—not merely good looking—you have to buy blindfolded.

That's why you find so many Seniors buying shoes at our store. They know they'll get Good Leather, Lots of Wear, and Contented Toes, as well as style.

Every Colorado College man ought to know he can buy our footwear blindfolded.

The regular morning chapel is well attended as usual.

FLASH—It is said that since the recent "Battle of the Sexes" Robinson sees no reason why the girls shouldn't ring the bell if they want to. With the ringing of bells, overturning of desks, and demolition of windows and doors, the school has now been rechristened "She-She".

The Sigma Chis go date hunting. The lad so carefully counting his pennies is Herstrom, who gets that way from handling student funds.

Campus Culpability:—

My children, culpability means guilt and that is what the faculty are all the time trying to place.

Collegiate Cares:—

We mean worries, e. g. a persistent bill collector, a prof who never leaves the room during an exam, and such other bothersome things.

College Carpet:—

A much worn furnishing of the Dean's office.

Campus Celebrations:—

Homecoming, Growlers' Dance, Hashers' Brawl, Question Club Formal, and the other week ends.

College Commercialism:—

A pastime in which all engage who are not seeking offices or who are Senior managers of Senior activity. The Junior Farce was an exception and does not prove the rule.

College Cleaners:—

Not an advertisement for the company which says, "We call for your clothes at eight and have them back by five," but that group of men who make our school a model of cleanliness—the Janitors.

College Committees:—

The bane of college life. See especially "Reinstatement Committee."

Convenient Courses:—

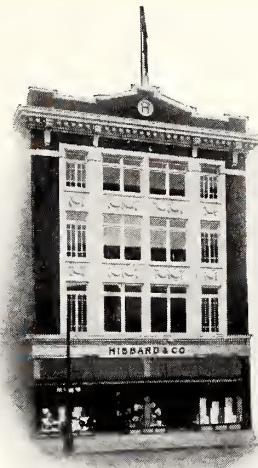

Difficult subjects such as Bible and Art Appreciation which keep C. C. Athletically active.

Country Clubs:—

Any of the seven fraternal organizations on the campus.

Canon City:—

Either this or Pueblo is the eventual destination of the wild younger generation.
